Abstracts

Bismuth vanadate is the inorganic compound with the formula BiVO_4 . It is a bright yellow solid. It is widely studied as visible light photo-catalyst with a narrow band gap of less than 2.4 eV. It is a representative of 'complex inorganic colored pigments,' or CICPs. More specifically, bismuth vanadate is a mixed-metal oxide. Bismuth vanadate is also known under the Colour Index International as C.I. Pigment Yellow 184. It occurs naturally as the rare minerals pucherite, clinobisvanite, and dreyerite. The pigment is very stable and weather-resistant, the only exception being its sensitivity to strong alkalis. It has also excellent hiding power and tinting strength. It is non-toxic and can be used as a substitute for the poisonous cadmium, chrome and lead-containing pigments such as cadmium yellow, chrome yellow and lead-tin yellow.
