Abstracts

Cobix is a Swiss made special bi-axial voided slab system. The concept idea is to omit the non- working concrete from the slab (extra un-required load), the issue that reduces the self-weight (dead load) of the slab up to 35% provide high equivalent stiffness. This will enhance the bearing behavior on the whole structural elements by forming spherical or flattened rotational symmetrical shape inside the slab.

Cobix void former modules consist of fixed reinforcement steel elements with integrated void formers made from one hundred percent recycled plastic material. The Cobix cage modules are positioned between the bottom and top reinforcement layers in the slab's cross section where they also serve as supporting cages.
