The polyimide film includes two types of benzene type polyimide film and biphenyl type polyimide film. The former is a product of American DuPont Company, under the trade name Kapton, made from pyromellitic anhydride and diaminodiphenyl ether.

The latter is produced by Japan's Ube Industries Co., Ltd. under the trade name Upilex, and is made from biphenyl tetracarboxylic dianhydride and diphenyl ether diamine (R type) or m-phenylene diamine (S type). It is widely used as a material for slot insulation and cable wrapping of motors. The transparent polyimide film can be used as a flexible solar cell base plate, and can also be used as an advanced composite material for aerospace, aircraft and rocket components.

In addition, it has a wide range of applications in the field of components and semiconductors.
