Heparin is one of the oldest drugs currently in widespread clinical use. It was originally isolated from canine liver cells. Heparin was discovered by Jay McLean and William Henry Howell in 1916.

Heparin prevents the blood from clotting and is used to treat and prevent deep vein thrombosis and pulmonary embolism. It is also used as part of the treatment of myocardial infarction and unstable angina. Another application of heparin is an inner surface anticoagulant on various experimental and medical devices such as test tubes and renal dialysis machines.

Crude heparin is the starting material intended for further processing by FDA drug establishments into heparin sodium USP API (active pharmaceutical ingredient), not a finished drug product. The scope of this report is mainly about Crude Heparin, Crude heparin is the upstream raw material for heparin.
