Abstracts

Lidocaine ointment is an analgesic agent, which is used to relieve pain by blocking nerve signals in the body. The ointment is used to reduce pain and discomfort caused by skin irritants such as insect bites, sun burn, minor cuts, sore mouth or throat, scratches, burns, poison ivy, and others.

Increase in applications of lidocaine as an anti-itching and pain relief drug associated with insects bites, minor cuts, burns, skin scrapes, male & women urethra, and eczema has fueled its demand, thereby driving the market growth. Furthermore, the use of the lidocaine ointment in cosmetic procedures for pain relief associated with cutaneous procedures such as laser surgery, soft tissue augmentation, and other cosmetic procedure is anticipated to fuel the market growth. In addition, rise in disposable income and increase in awareness of preventive healthcare among population are anticipated to boost the market growth. However, government regulations related to the safety and efficacy of the lidocaine ointment hinder the market growth. Ongoing R&D activities related to lidocaine ointment are anticipated to present new opportunities for the market.
