Medical Grade UPS are used exclusively in the medical field to ensure that organizations can protect their systems and applications by maintaining a consistent energy flow even in extreme situations. An uninterruptible power supply is an electrical device that can provide emergency power even in the event of a failure of other input power sources. These devices differ from backup generators or auxiliary or emergency power systems in that the UPS provides near-instantaneous protection in the form of energy stored in the battery, even in the event of an input power outage.
