Abstracts

Micro Funding are comprehensive consumer loans with individuals or enterprises as the core, and guarantees are generally required during the processing process. Micro Funding is an extension of microfinance in technology and practical applications. The establishment of small and micro-credit companies rationally pooled some private funds, regulated the private lending market, and effectively solved the financing problems of agriculture, rural areas and small and medium-sized enterprises. At present, there are also personal small loans for office workers, most of which do not require collateral, but the credit and information review are relatively strict.
