Abstracts

Non-cystic fibrosis bronchiectasis (NCFB) is a chronic, progressive respiratory disorder characterized by irreversibly and abnormally dilated airways, persistent cough, excessive sputum production and recurrent pulmonary infections. The changes in the bronchial walls may be due to chronic inflammation secondary to recurrent or chronic infections in the lung, but often the exact cause is not identified.<sup>1</sup> Symptoms vary from intermittent episodes of respiratory infections with excessive mucus production to chronic symptoms with persistent daily expectoration of purulent sputum. Non-cystic fibrosis bronchiectasis is associated with comorbidities such as anxiety, depression, fatigue, and has a significant impact on quality of life.
