Abstracts

The paint packaging market has been witnessing a soaring demand from exterior paint application. Exterior paints are being increasingly used to protect the exterior surfaces of buildings from harsh weather conditions. While being widely employed for exterior walls, these paints are also gaining popularity as waterproofing agents. Furthermore, the availability of a wide spectrum of exterior paints has driven the demand for these products to enhance the aesthetic appeal of buildings. Such factors have necessitated the large-scale application of packaging products across the globe.
