Abstracts

The public is concerned about the lack of nutrition in the diet and is concerned about a healthy lifestyle to get the best nutrition and prevent various diseases. It includes dietary supplements and nutraceuticals as well as functional foods. Factors raising such concerns include a poor diet and a sedentary lifestyle. The increased demand for preventive health measures, the increasing trend towards customization in the food sector, and the ongoing activity in healthy eating and nutrigenomics are all reinforcing the development of personalized retail nutrition and health products.
