Abstracts

Cooking rice had traditionally been a process which required the utmost attention to ensure the rice was cooking properly. Rice cookers automate the process by mechanically or electronically controlling heat and timing, thus freeing up a space on the hob and the attention normally reserved for rice cooking. Although rice cookers do not necessarily speed up the cooking process, with a rice cooker the cook's involvement in cooking rice is reduced to simply measuring the rice, preparing the rice properly and using the correct amount of water - the rest of the process is automated. Many modern cookers have heat insulating casing and a warming mechanism. When the rice is determined to be fully cooked, the unit will automatically switch to the 'keep warm' cycle, which prevents the rice from being overcooked and keeping the rice warm until it is ready to be served. It takes around 30 minutes to one hour for most electric rice cookers to complete cooking. The time required mainly depends on amount of rice used, as well as the power of the heating elements.
