Abstracts

Sea buckthorn oil is derived from plants in a group of species of the genus Hippophae, the most commonly used of which is Hippophae rhamnoides. As species belonging to this genus accumulate lipids in the mesocarp (the fleshy part of the fruit), oil can be extracted from either the seeds or the pulp of the fruit. The resulting oils (seed oil and pulp oil, also often referred to as fruit/berry oil) are used in dietary supplements, nutraceuticals, cosmetics and skin care products.
