Abstracts

The superwetters are the substrate wetting agents that efficiently reduce the surface tension, which increases the contact between substrate and liquid. This helps in solving multiple problems at once in various end-use industries such as paints & coatings, agriculture, and other industrial applications. In addition, this multi-functional characteristic of the superwetting surfactants favors its use in developing a high-performance coatings and varnishes formulations. The key features of superwetting surfactants are good water-solubility and spreading and wetting property. Moreover, the product has excellent spreading and wetting property which makes it applicable in the agricultural adjuvants.
