Abstracts

Surimi is a new type of aquatic food raw material. After the surimi is chopped and mixed, salt, auxiliary materials, etc. are added for crushing to form a viscous fish paste and then heated to become a flexible gel. Such products include fish balls, fish cakes, fish sausages, Fish rolls and so on. Because the surimi products are easy to prepare, tender and delicious, and resistant to storage, they are quite suitable for urban consumption. Such products can be manufactured in large-scale factories and can be produced manually by households. It can improve the economic value of low-value fish, and can be accepted by the people, so it is a promising aquatic product.
