Abstracts

Swimwear is a type of clothing specially designed for people engaged in water-based activity or water sports such as swimming, water polo, surfing, water skiing, or even leisure activities such as sun bathing. It is also used to avoid skin rashes caused due to contact with pool chlorinated water. It is made by different types of fabrics such as polyester, nylon, spandex, and other blended fibers, which offers high elasticity & comfort. Swimwear is not only worn for swimming but is also used as semi-casual wear for pool parties and at outdoor venues such as restaurants, resorts, and shopping centers.
