Abstracts

Talent Intelligence tools centralize and analyze talent data to inform HR decisions, particularly recruiting and hiring decisions. Talent intelligence tools heavily emphasize artificial intelligence mechanisms to proactively surface talent insights. These AI-based platforms quickly “learn” how to personalize and optimize intelligence to fit the business’s specific talent and recruiting needs. These tools are most often utilized by large or global organizations, where cultural differences, language barriers, and other factors make talent data challenging to manually handle. Talent intelligence enables micro-level talent insights at scale for these enterprises.

Talent intelligence solutions leverage centralized talent data to automate many insights, pattern recognition, and reporting that is necessary to inform talent decisions. Internally, talent intelligence helps identify gaps in talent pools and candidate pipelines to help organizations preemptively fill gaps. TI tools can also automatically filter and shortlist candidates based on objective criteria. This level of automation can also operationalize DEI standards in early-stage recruitment processes.
