When the mitral valve does not close properly, then this condition is called Mitral Regurgitation. Mitral Regurgitation (MR) is a valve disorder where blood leaks backward through the mitral valve with heart contractions and reduces the amount of blood pumped through the body, which over time can lead to heart dysfunction and heart failure. Mitral Regurgitation can be of two types: Functional Mitral Regurgitation (FMR) and Degenerative Mitral Regurgitation (DMR).
