Abstracts

Alliances with GSK and Celgene in 2013 propelled MorphoSys (MOR) in the limelight. This could well be the inflection point in MorphoSys's evolution into a successful mature biotech company on the strength of its innovative platforms to develop biologics. Licensing of un-partnered early programs and the clinical data of its maturing therapeutic antibody pipeline are the future drivers. MOR enter into out-licensing deal with CELG for jointly development of MOR-202 (HuCAL antibody targeting CD38) for a total value of €698.8m. CELG strong presence in hematological malignancy further enhances the value with possible expansion in other leukemia's.....
