Nutritional supplement market in the U.K.

Nutrition supplements are substances that provide adequate amounts of essential nutrients required for the better functioning of human bodies. It contains vitamins, proteins, herbs, meal supplements, sports nutrition and other related products that are used to improve the nutritional content of a diet. They are added to the diet to boost overall health and energy, provide support to the immune system and reduce the risk of illness. The U.K. nutritional supplement market is expected to reach USD 15 Bn growing at a CAGR of 6.00% by 2023. It is one of the most significant markets in the European nutritional supplement market due to increasing use of vitamin and sports nutrition products among adults.

The U.K. nutritional supplement market is classified by type of ingredients and by type of end users. By type of ingredients, it is further sub-classified into vitamin, protein, amino acid, enzyme and botanical supplement. By type of end users it is further classified into infants and adults. Protein supplements grab the highest market revenue regarding nutritional ingredients due to the use of protein supplements in weight management and sports nutrition.

Key growth factors

Increasing awareness about the importance of healthy lifestyles, sports nutrition and healthy eating will fuel the growth of the market. Rise in the number of product launches and the consequent rise in awareness due to advertisements are also major drivers.

Threats and key players

The stringent regulations enforced by The European Food Safety Authority's Nutrition and Health Claims Regulation (NHCR) regarding the manufacturing of nutritional supplements is considered to be a key challenge. The key players operating in the nutritional supplement market are Sanofi, Vitrition, Glanbia Nutritionals, Abbott Nutritionals, Nestle Nutritionals and Bayer.
