1. Overview & Rationale:

The report provides a holistic assessment as well as comprehensive analysis of the Business Activities, Strategic Initiatives, Strategic Measures, Business & Strategic Developments and Strategic Moves for BAE Systems for Q1 2014 and provides an analysis of how they integrate with & fit into the medium term strategic picture & overall business strategy against the backdrop of an evolving industry landscape & shifting global dynamics with the industry reeling under the pressure of significant defense spending cuts across traditional markets and has started treading on the consolidation path as highlighted by the mergers of Force Protection & GDLS and Panhard & Renault Truck Defense earlier amid a difficult & uncertain global macroeconomic environment marked by slow pace of ongoing recovery in Western Europe from the debt crisis and a multitude of economic challenges in the United States.

2. Backdrop: Global Armoured Vehicle Industry under Tremendous Pressure & Deploying Coping Strategies & Mechanisms to Partially Offset Large Magnitude Defense Budget Cuts:

The allied operations & campaigns across Iraq & Afghanistan war theatres under Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom post 9/11 drove the growth of defense industrial base across North America & Western Europe and especially bolstered armoured vehicle manufacturers given the significant utilization & threat from IEDs & other asymmetric tactics across these theatres throughout these campaigns. The industry segment saw the entry of new players like Navistar into the armoured vehicle segment through these years, witnessed the growth of niche players like Force

Protection and observed the significant expansion of order backlog at industry heavyweights, especially, GDLS & BAE Systems. However, with the winding up of allied operations and the scheduled withdrawal of troops from Afghanistan through 2014 and the commensurate defense spending cuts; the activity across almost all key North American OEMs has dropped substantially, topline across OEMs has shrunk by almost one third to half as compared against peak defense spending levels while the competitive intensity for new defense contracts award has risen tremendously with cost competitiveness becoming a critical parameter for new contract awards.

The defense spending situation across North America & Western Europe is likely to further tighten over near to medium term. In the United States alone, a 45% cut in defense spending on tactical wheeled vehicles is anticipated through the 2013 to 2017 period with the situation likely to further worsen with the full impact of sequestration cuts coming into effect. The axing of Army's GCV program in the FY2015 budget request is a prime example of the potential fallouts of the same. The industry, consequently, has been on the consolidation path and has already seen the acquisition of Force Protection by GDLS. Further, strategic alliances & collaboration trend amongst OEMs is on the rise aimed at sharing development costs as well as risks & enhanced cost competitiveness amid a difficult budgetary scenario. OEMs are focusing on strengthening the commercial businesses in their portfolio besides sniffing & harnessing potential opportunities in sustainment support, upgrades & retrofitment of existing in-service vehicle fleets besides looking at & pursuing exports to international markets to partially offset spending cuts. The strategy seemed to have delivered with GDLS as well as Oshkosh winning a few, large-ticket export deals from the Middle-East of-late.
