Abstracts

The Global Farm Equipment Market is projected to cool down further in 2024; trudging in normalization mode, which began in earnest in 2023, following the record highs of 2022; which witnessed demand for new equipment peaking and net farm incomes surging to levels not witnessed since a long time. The high cost of capital owing to a sustained high interest rate credit environment is impacting & deferring fleet replacement decisions while higher projected cost of production and lower agriculture commodity prices are likely to put significant pressure on farm incomes amid a difficult, challenging & uncertain global macroeconomic environment which is likely to collectively ensure a lackluster 2024 for agriculture and farm equipment manufacturers. The industry OEMs and retailers have actively been working towards adjusting production output and inventory levels in accordance with the emerging market environment as they brace-up for an imminent market slump while actively promoting technology intensive precision agtech equipment, featuring digitalization, especially precision & automated crop sprayers, as farmers seek to leverage technology-driven increase in efficiency and productivity in a difficult, overall market environment. The same is also likely to provide an uptick to the used equipment and equipment rental segments over near term.

The global economy is projected to be heading towards a slowdown in 2024, following continued monetary policy tightening by central banks globally over the recent years to check inflation, in turn, creating a tight credit environment. It comes as a double whammy for the global economy amid sustained geopolitical instability with ongoing Israeli military operations in Gaza causing tensions and keeping the entire Middle East region & the world on the edge and the ongoing Russia-Ukraine war, which enters its third year in 2024.

The farm equipment industry also continues to make active & steady progress towards required energy transition geared towards sustainability for the long term with electrification & utilization of sustainable technologies being duly underway across industry OEMs. Further, ongoing integration of Connectivity-based services, Autonomous and Electrification technologies continues with steady progress being made towards ramping up production and roll out of electric and autonomous trucks across industry OEMs. The global economic growth, however, is projected to return to its range-bound average movement of under 3% annually over near term with a high predisposition to critical events and catastrophes with any further, major potential shocks at this time could simply send the global economy spiraling down into a full-blown recessionary cycle.
