Abstracts

The report analyzes the overall strategy focus and provides Insights into Key Strategies & Plans being conceptualized & pursued by General Dynamics Land Systems for the medium term horizon amid an improving market scenario with defense budgets across North America and EU likely to see real growth over near to medium term with rapidly evolving geopolitical dynamics and equation with the resurgence of traditional state based threats, deterioration of traditional rule based international world order and growing threat from extremism, terrorism and political instability. Thus, long term, scratch-up franchise programs like the JLTV in the U.S., equipment modernization, international export opportunities & need for increased protection from evolving IED threat are likely to be the key drivers across traditional markets over medium term with focus on agility, flexibility, enhanced protection & cost effectiveness. Additionally, emerging markets & regions led by Asia-Pacific, Africa, Middle-East & Eastern Europe have become & are poised to remain as key growth markets for armored vehicles globally with ongoing political instability, internal conflict & territorial disputes being the key drivers. Russian threat post Ukraine episode has been driving military spending across Eastern & Northern Europe while China's rapid build-up of military capabilities has been the key driver of defense spending across the Asia-Pacific region while political instability & internal conflict continue to drive equipment modernization & replacement across Africa & the Middle-East region. The report concludes by providing comprehensive market outlook for the global armoured vehicles market over medium term.
