Abstracts

1. Overview & Rationale:

The report provides comprehensive analysis as well as holistic assessment of the Strategic Initiatives, Strategic Measures, Business & Strategic Developments and Strategic Activities as well as Moves for Hitachi Construction Machinery Co. Ltd. for Q1 2014 and provides an analysis of how they integrate with & fit into the medium term strategic picture & overall business strategy against the backdrop of an evolving industry landscape and difficult global macroeconomic environment as well as conditions with the industry impacted by significant reduction in mining & construction activity across most traditional markets.

2. Industry Backdrop: Global Construction Equipment Industry on a Tough Terrain:

The Global Construction Equipment industry has been on a tough terrain with most OEMs facing significant pressure on machinery sales, order intake & profitability amid difficult & uncertain global macroeconomic environment & conditions further compounded by the ongoing slump in mining activity that has altered the product sales mix across OEMs and has subsequently impacted profitability. The EU economy is slowly making an egress from the slump and making steady recovery while the U.S. economy is poised to move towards more stability in 2014 with a favourable fiscal & monetary policy stance & outlook. The construction activity in the U.S. has been improving of-late driven by strong housing starts which touched the 1 million level in 2013 while projections for 2014 indicate towards the 1.18 million mark. Strong housing starts & modest non-residential construction activity are likely to be key drivers of replacement demand in North America over near term.

Chinese Economy Likely to Stay Steady at around 7.5% GDP Growth Rate for 2014:

The economic growth in China; which has been of strategic significance for the global construction equipment industry; registered a decent 7.5% growth for 2013, driven mostly by fiscal measures which had been a much needed change. Overall, the GDP growth target for the World's second largest economy for 2014 is at around 7.5% despite the ongoing economic tightening which is likely to match the 2013 level more or less.

Improved Construction Activity Likely in 2014:

Thus, 2014 is likely to be much better for the construction equipment industry with a number of variables favouring construction activity across Traditional Markets & China. However, managing cost base efficiently & optimally besides sporadic currency fluctuations that pose a significant threat of profitability erosion across OEMs remain key challenges for the industry.

Strong, Long-Term Industry Fundamentals:

The industry fundamentals, however, remain solid and the long-term industry growth prospects still appear robust, driven, primarily, by the significant anticipated investments likely to be made towards infrastructure repair & rebuilding across traditional markets, especially, in the United States and rapid infrastructure development required across emerging markets to sustain economic growth & rapid urbanization.
