Abstracts

The global Ganoderma Extract Market size is valued at USD 2.6 billion in 2024 and is projected to reach USD 4.4 billion by 2032, registering a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 6.7% over the forecast period.

The ganoderma extract market is witnessing robust growth driven by its widespread use in immune-boosting, anti-inflammatory, and adaptogenic supplements. Ganoderma (Reishi mushroom, Ganoderma lucidum) extracts contain beta-glucans, triterpenes, and polysaccharides used in traditional medicine and modern nutraceuticals for immunity, fatigue reduction, and stress management. Manufacturers are focusing on dual extraction methods (water and ethanol) for full-spectrum extracts, high beta-glucan standardisation, and encapsulated forms for supplements. Growth is supported by rising consumer awareness of medicinal mushrooms, integration in functional beverages, and research supporting immunomodulatory and anti-cancer properties. Challenges include raw material cultivation sustainability, taste masking in beverage formulations, and regulatory approvals for therapeutic claims. Recent developments include Nammex launching organic high beta-glucan Ganoderma extracts, Xi'an Greena Biotech introducing dual-extracted Reishi powders, and Mushroom Wisdom enhancing triterpene-standardised Reishi supplements.

Major trends include development of dual-extracted, beta-glucan-standardised Ganoderma extracts for immune and adaptogenic supplements.

Drivers are rising demand for immune health products, integration of medicinal mushrooms into beverages, and research supporting anti-inflammatory and anti-cancer benefits.

Challenges include raw material cultivation sustainability, taste masking in functional foods and beverages, and regulatory restrictions on therapeutic claims.

Companies focus on dual extraction for full-spectrum actives, enhancing beta-glucan purity, and integrating Reishi extracts into capsules, powders, and functional drinks.

Recent developments include Nammex launching high beta-glucan extracts, Xi'an Greena introducing dual-extracted powders, and Mushroom Wisdom enhancing triterpene-standardised Reishi formulations.
