Abstracts

The global Peach Paper Market size is valued at USD 2.9 billion in 2024 and is projected to reach USD 5.4 billion by 2032, registering a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 8.1% over the forecast period.

Peach paper market is expanding steadily as barbecue restaurants, meat processors, and food service providers adopt peach butcher paper for smoking meats, wrapping sandwiches, and retail displays. Known for its breathable, uncoated kraft texture with a light pink hue, peach paper allows moisture retention while maintaining bark texture in smoked meats. Key manufacturers focus on FDA-compliant, unbleached kraft formulations with high wet strength and roll or sheet packaging options. Growth is driven by rising barbecue culture, food presentation trends, and demand for sustainable, natural food wraps. However, challenges include price volatility of kraft pulp and competition from aluminium foil or waxed papers. Recent developments include Oren International expanding its peach butcher paper production with high wet strength formulations and custom branding options for barbecue restaurants and meat processors.

Major trends include rising use of peach butcher paper in barbecue smoking, sandwich wrapping, and natural food presentation for its breathable, uncoated kraft properties.

Growth is driven by expanding barbecue restaurant chains, artisanal meat processing, and sustainability trends favouring kraft paper over foil or plastic wraps in food service.

Key challenges include kraft pulp price volatility, competition from foil or waxed wraps in retail meat packaging, and limited grease barrier performance in high-fat foods.

Companies are innovating with FDA-compliant, high wet strength peach paper rolls and custom printing options to support branding and operational efficiency in food service.

Recent developments include Oren International expanding peach butcher paper production with enhanced wet strength and branded sheet options to meet growing demand from barbecue restaurants and meat processors.
