Abstracts

Smart lighting for connected homes offers enhanced ambience, entertainment, energy, security, safety, and even health benefits. This report examines the smart lighting ecosystem of products and services for the connected home with attention to four industry segments: standalone lighting systems, lighting systems for self-installed home control platforms, lighting systems for interactive security services, and custom installed lighting for whole home systems. It addresses key industry players, market drivers, and industry trends in lighting devices and systems and provides five-year forecasts for selected smart lighting devices.
