Prostate cancer has emerged as one of the most commonly diagnosed cancer among men in the US. According to the American Cancer Society, there were close to 242,000 new cases of prostate cancer in the US in 2012, with 28,000 men dying from it. This was an increase from 206,640 men diagnosed with the condition during 2009. The number of men being actively treated for prostate disorders such as benign prostatic hyperplasia (BPH), prostate cancer, and prostatitis, is on a rise in the recent years.
