Abstracts

This research builds on a propriety database of Asian bank's technologies, and it draws on an extensive survey that covered more than 70 banks in Asia, multiple personal interviews with decision makers in technology departments, and discrete conversations with regulators, and various conversations with working level employees in banks' technology departments.

This report outlines the main vendors and technologies banks are utilizing in core banking, loan processing systems, branch systems, ATM systems, internet banking platforms, retail payments, back office systems, treasury management systems, risk solutions, enterprise solutions, and other critical systems that are improving the operations and increasing their efficiencies.

One of the main benefits of this report is that we outline key statements and words from bankers that were gathered via interviews and secondary research. This research will undoubtedly alter your strategy and marketing plans in order to fully penetrate your market of choice.
