Abstracts

Beer is an alcoholic beverage produced by the saccharification of starch and fermentation of the resulting sugar. The basic ingredients of beer are water, a starch source and a flavouring. Beer is the world's most widely consumed alcoholic beverage, and the third-most popular drink overall, after water and tea. Bottled beer is beer that is sold in a bottle. Beer bottles are usually glass, the glass commonly is brown or green to reduce spoilage from light, especially ultraviolet.

Since the COVID-19 virus outbreak in December 2019, the disease has spread to almost 100 countries around the globe with the World Health Organization declaring it a public health emergency. The global impacts of the coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) are already starting to be felt, and will significantly affect the Bottled Beer market in 2020.

COVID-19 can affect the global economy in three main ways: by directly affecting production and demand, by creating supply chain and market disruption, and by its financial impact on firms and financial markets.

The outbreak of COVID-19 has brought effects on many aspects, like flight cancellations; travel bans and quarantines; restaurants closed; all indoor events restricted; over forty countries state of emergency declared; massive slowing of the supply chain; stock market volatility; falling business confidence, growing panic among the population, and uncertainty about future.

This report also analyses the impact of Coronavirus COVID-19 on the Bottled Beer industry.
