A clean email list is critical for success in email marketing. If you fail to remove inactive subscribers and addresses that continually “bounce” back your emails, you risk your campaigns getting sent straight to the spam box, or worse, your sender address will be blocked altogether.Let’s be clear – there are two situations regularly cleaning your list can help you to avoid, and they both have to do with your reputation, whether with people or email spam filters:
List cleaning helps you to avoid recipients marking you as spam (which, in turn, can contribute to your emails getting blocked by some providers) – if you are sending to people who aren?t interested, you are doing more harm than good. List cleaning helps you to avoid damaging your ‘sender score? (a measure that signals to email providers the trustworthiness of an outgoing email address) – if you damage your sender score by getting too many bounces you can get blocked by email providers.
Since the COVID-19 virus outbreak in December 2019, the disease has spread to almost 100 countries around the globe with the World Health Organization declaring it a public health emergency. The global impacts of the coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) are already starting to be felt, and will significantly affect the Email List Cleaning Service market in 2020.
COVID-19 can affect the global economy in three main ways: by directly affecting production and demand, by creating supply chain and market disruption, and by its financial impact on firms and financial markets.
The outbreak of COVID-19 has brought effects on many aspects, like flight cancellations; travel bans and quarantines; restaurants closed; all indoor events restricted; over forty countries state of emergency declared; massive slowing of the supply chain; stock market volatility; falling business confidence, growing panic among the population, and uncertainty about future.
This report also analyses the impact of Coronavirus COVID-19 on the Email List
