Abstracts

Unified endpoint management (UEM) tools combine the management of multiple endpoint types in a single console. UEM tools perform the following functions: • Configure, manage and monitor iOS, Android, Windows 10 and macOS, and manage some Internet of Things (IoT) and wearable endpoints. • Unify the application of configurations, management profiles, device compliance and data protection. • Provide a single view of multidevice users, enhancing efficacy of end-user support and gathering detailed workplace analytics. • Act as a coordination point to orchestrate the activities of related endpoint technologies such as identity services and security infrastructure. Vendors in this market fall into two categories: those that are heavily invested in mobile and modern management with very little client management tool (CMT) functionality, and those that have integrated an existing CMT or explicitly built CMT features into their UEM.
Since the COVID-19 virus outbreak in December 2019, the disease has spread to almost 100 countries around the globe with the World Health Organization declaring it a public health emergency. The global impacts of the coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) are already starting to be felt, and will significantly affect the Unified Endpoint Management Tool market in 2020.
COVID-19 can affect the global economy in three main ways: by directly affecting production and demand, by creating supply chain and market disruption, and by its financial impact on firms and financial markets.
The outbreak of COVID-19 has brought effects on many aspects, like flight cancellations; travel bans and quarantines; restaurants closed; all indoor events restricted; over forty countries state of emergency declared; massive slowing of the supply chain; stock market volatility; falling business confidence, growing panic among the population, and uncertainty about future.
