Abstracts

Vanilla Beans have a sweet, perfumed aroma with a woody or smoky flavor. Pure vanilla is relatively expensive because the growth and harvesting process is labor-intensive and time-consuming.

At present, the commercial rate of Vanilla Bean rate has been reached 100%; however, the commercial rate of ordinary seed is approximately 20%, which has quite large market potential.

In 2015, global Vanilla Bean total production reaches 8236Kg, -7.13% more than that in 2011. Madagascar is the biggest production area, which is estimated to account for 45.65%. In Madagascar, Indonesia covers about 60%.

India is another major production region with the average growth rate of -7.13% in the past five years.

The market competition is intensive because currently there is huge number of enterprises that engaged in Vanilla Bean business. The breeding technology of Vanilla Bean is not advanced; so the involved of enterprises have paid more attention on the technology of Vanilla Bean breeding to gain more market share. In the last ten years significant efforts have been made for commercial exploitation of Vanilla Bean through the use of gametocyte and CMS lines.

Despite the presence of competition Vanilla Bean in the market, the demand for Vanilla Bean is quite tremendous and is growing, investors are still optimistic about this area; in the future, there will still have more new investors to enter the field.

Although sales of Vanilla Bean brought a lot of opportunities, the study group recommends the new entrants who have money only, but lack technical advantage and downstream support should not enter into the Vanilla Bean field

Since the COVID-19 virus outbreak in December 2019, the disease has spread to almost 100 countries around the globe with the World Health Organization declaring it a public health emergency. The global impacts of the coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) are already starting to be felt, and will significantly affect the Vanilla Bean 3900 market in 2020.

COVID-19 can affect the global economy in three main ways: by directly affecting production and demand, by creating supply chain and market disruption, and by its financial impact on firms and financial markets.

The outbreak of COVID-19 has brought effects on many aspects, like flight cancellations; travel bans and quarantines; restaurants closed; all indoor events restricted; over forty countries state of emergency declared; massive slowing of the supply chain; stock market volatility; falling business confidence, growing panic among the population, and uncertainty about future.
