Abstracts

Chinese economy has grown with double digit for almost a decade. Such rapid economic growth over the last two decades has transformed China into a leading consumer society. China is now having a huge consumer base of footwear, with annual per person consumption in the 2.5 – 2.8 pair range. It is anticipated that china footwear market size, which is valued in Billions of US$, would triple by 2020 from its 2010 market size. The growth of the Chinese footwear market has been propelled by increasing disposable income, expanding consumer base, changing lifestyle, rising brand awareness among consumers and growth of e-commerce in China. However, challenges such as high cost of raw materials and increasing labor cost are expected to hinder the future of the Chinese footwear market.
