Abstracts

Cervical cancer is one of the most serious public health issues in Europe. Despite introduction of vaccination in 21 European countries, still more than 23 Thousand women have died from cervical cancer across all over Europe. Cervical cancer incidence rate in Europe was 10.2 per 100,000 women population. Germany, France and United Kingdom are top three dominating countries in the Europe cervical cancer market in 2017. Cervical cancer generally occurs in women over 30 years. It is mostly caused by the Human papillomavirus (HPV) virus. Cervical cancer is the fourth most common cancer prevailing in women and the seventh in terms of overall cancer incidences.

Increasing cervical cancer incidence rate is one of the key factors that drive the cervical cancer screening market. Rapidly increasing female population, growing prevalence of HPV infections and increasing awareness about cervical cancer screening programs is also expected to drive the cervical cancer screening market in the near future.

Renub Research report titled “Europe Cervical Cancer Diagnostic Market & Forecast, By Test Type (Pap smear and HPV DNA), Countries (United Kingdom, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Norway and Netherlands)” provides a complete analysis of Europe Cervical Cancer Screening Market. The covers European Countries Cervical Cancer Test Market Screened Population & Mortality.

By Test Types – Pap smear Screening Tests is gaining popularity in Europe

The report studies the market and population of the following cervical cancer screening tests: Pap smear Tests and HPV DNA Tests. Pap smear and HPV DNA tests are more popular with the developed countries such as Germany, United Kingdom and France.

By Country – Germany holds the largest share by population and market in Cervical Cancer Test

The report studies the market/screened population of Nine big European countries (United Kingdom, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Norway and Netherlands) which provides a complete country-wise analysis of Europe Cervical Cancer Screening Market.
