Abstracts

The Renub Research report titled “The World Diabetes Market, 2007-2025: An analysis of Diabetes Drug and Insulin Market” gives a detailed analysis on the global diabetes market. This report investigates the top 10 countries: diabetes prevalence, diabetes drug market and insulin market. It also provides a description of the sales and market share of top 10 brands in anti-obesity drug and diabetes drug market globally. This report talks about the prevalence of Impaired Glucose Tolerance (IGT) globally, 20 countries annual health expenditure on diabetes, death due to type 1 and type 2 diabetes globally.

Market Overview

In recent year’s diabetes drug market and insulin market has shown remarkable growth. This growth is mostly driven by increasing prevalence of diabetes globally and easily availability of insulin in other countries due to its access at an affordable price. The diabetes prevalence is increasing due to changing food habits in the western world leading to obesity.

As the prevalence of obesity and related diseases (diabetes) has increased, so have the sales of drugs to treat them. Top 9 brands of anti-obesity drugs have done sales of more than US$ 100 Million by November 2007 to October 2008. Whereas, top 8 diabetes drug made a sale of more than US$ 5 Billion from the period of October 2007 to October 2008.

Although the works are going on to make the oral-pills an alternative for insulin but at present none of the systems have mimics the physiology of insulin secretion. So it is expected that insulin market will keep on growing to reach US$ 15 Billion by 2012. In future Insulin demand will be driven by countries such as US, China, India, Brazil, Russia and Germany.
