Abstracts

The Indian pharma industry has always been a leading industrial sector in the country, with a paralleled dominance of both domestic and foreign pharma companies. As a result of the vast potential held by the industry, it was estimated to have generated revenue worth US$ 49 Billion in FY 2021. Growing population of middle-class, rapid shift towards urbanization, enhanced medical infrastructure, increase in health insurance and lifestyle-related disease are some of the major factors for the growth of the industry.

According to our new research report “Indian Pharma Sector Forecast 2026”, the rise in continuous investments by multinational companies and exports project a double-digit growth in near future. A large percentage of pharma products produced in India are exported, which has led the leading players to expand their reach into the Western nations. Due to the investments in R&D and the quest for more and more ANDA filings, the clinical trials market is growing at blistering pace. For comprehensive outlook of the industry, our in-depth and extensive research covers various segment ranging from the export and domestic market, bulk drugs & formulations to branded & generic drugs, etc.

The progress in the reach to medicines among Indians sets the baseline for the optimistic future outlook of the pharmaceutical market. The focus of the industry will shift towards capitalizing the potential of Tier-III and rural areas. Sectors such as biosimilars and CRAMS will continue pave way for the pharmaceutical market during the forecast period (FY 2022-2026).

The report offers a comprehensive statistical and analytical overview of the Indian pharmaceutical industry. It offers data on past, present, and future trends, with a focus on the pharmaceutical market's overall structure, makeup, and operation. The research goes into great detail about the opportunities and challenges that are predicted to occur both within and outside the pharmaceutical industry.

The research also looks at the pharmaceutical industry's regulatory framework and distribution structure. It has thoroughly investigated current market trends, developments, and competitive landscapes in order to help clients comprehend the market structure and its trajectory in the coming years. It also gives a quick rundown of the demographics and healthcare profile in order to assess the pharmaceutical market in terms of demand, spending, and potential future direction.
