Abstracts

Diversification is the means of reducing the risks or uncertainties by making investment in more than one business. The main reason for the selection of the diversification is that to minimize the risk factor and to extend the business progress level for the company. Diversification defines as the procedure of allocation of the capital in a manner that declines the exposure to any of the specific resource of risk. In this report we will focus on measuring the level of the diversification along with the adoption of the diversification strategy for a 3D Printer business. Cont... (500 words of this report)
