Abstracts

Thomas Kennerly 'Tom' Wolfe, Jr. is an incredible American author and journalist who has been known by the world for his tremendous contributions in journalism and American letters during twentieth century. He was born on March 2, in Richmond, Virginia. He completed his studies early education in Washington & Lee and later at the age of sixteen, he joined University of North Carolina. There he decided to adopt drama and play writing as his career. After graduation he studied English at Harvard, from John Livingston Lowes. His influential contributions on the significance of a intuitive blend of literary impact, personal experience, and illusion further strengthened his decision of career making.
