Abstracts

This article is basically about women empowerment in Kuwait. The women in Kuwait in specific have turned into further involved in dogmatic and public movements, performing a serious prominent part in the fast and significant variations that have removed the Kuwait. In the meantime, the study regarding the part of women empowerment has become significantly important in Kuwait. In this paper basically we have taken dependent and 5 independent variables. There are numerous misunderstandings in the United States regarding the issue faced by females in Kuwait region. We have selected ANOVA a statistical technique for interpreting our results. In ANOVA we examined R Square, Beta and level of significance. According to results there is significant positive relation in middle of dependent and independent variable. Suggestions and limitation also provided in this paper. This is great contribution in previous study.
