Abstracts

The property rights and pricing system play vital role in development and growth of Kuwaiti economy. Individuals can use their resources due to exclusive rights. Individuals can take full benefit of their resources due to these property rights. The banking system of Kuwait is doing well in enhancing growth and development. The standard of life also increases due to balance in costs and benefits of property rights. The policy makers of Kuwait now identify the essential part performed by a system of property rights and stable pricing system. However, it is also recommended that policies that weaken the system should be avoided. Firstly, the property rights are identified among companies and then these are identified by the law. The government of Kuwait is consistently weakening or strengthening the property right system on daily basis by introducing several kinds of rules and regulation. There are two factors regarding property rights are considered important. First is limited responsibility of persons to utilize their properties. 2nd is capability of persons to move those privileges on intended basis. The factors closely related to the pricing system of Kuwait. On this basis, the efficient prices will be assigned to goods and services in Kuwait. Excellent wealth can be produced by economy due to effective pricing system. It is concluded; the powerful the private property rights structure, the superior the financial system is at competently assigning resources and growing capital making possibilities. Cont...
