Abstracts

Description

There are over 300 million people suffering from arthritis around the world. According to the statistics of Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), about 50 million American suffer from arthritis and this number will rise to 67 million in 2030 on present trends. Besides, direct spending (drugs) and indirect spending (productivity decline) amount to USD 128 billion each year. According to the statistics, there are about 100 million patients with arthritis in China, among which 5-10 million are patients with rheumatoid arthritis (RA). In China, the disability rate of RA is 50% if left untreated in two years and 70% in 3 years.

Developed by Pfizer under the trade name of Enbrel, etanercept is the first completely humanized soluble tumor necrosis factor antagonist for the treatment of RA and ankylosing spondylitis. Its sales value has surpassed USD 8 billion for four successive years. Globally, etanercept is the fifth best-selling drug in 2014 with sales value reaching up to USD 8.54 billion.

After entering China in 2010, etanercept develops fast with annual sales value rising from CNY 2.45 million in 2010 to CNY 23.45 million in 2014 and CAGR during this period reaching up to 75.9%. Currently, etanercept in the Chinese market is monopolized by Boehringer Ingelheim (Germany). According to CRI's market survey, the price range of 25 mg (one injection per package) etanercept in sample hospitals in 2014 was CNY 2032.97-2386.28/package. Although etanercept's market size is not very big due to its relatively high price, it still keeps growing fast. With the economic development and rising incomes, the market for etanercept will be big.
