Abstracts

Description

As the third generation of nitroimidazole antibiotics, ornidazole is used to combat anaerobic bacterial and parasitic infections. It inhibits nucleic acid synthesis by disrupting the DNA of microbial cells. Compared with metronidazole and tinidazole, ornidazole is found to have better efficacy.

Originally developed by Hoffer.M, ornidazole got US patent on May.25, 1969. Later, the patent was transferred to Hoffmann-LaRocheandCo that marketed ornidazole under the trade name of Tiberel in Germany, France, Italy, Switzerland, Australia and Sweden during the period of 1977-1983. Coming as tablet, capsule, injection, ornidazole can be used to treat bacterial vaginosis, endometritis, ovarian cyst and pelvis soft tissue infection.

Ornidazole products available in the Chinese market all come from over ten local companies. According to CRI's market survey, Sichuan Kelun Pharmaceutical Co., Ltd, Xi'an Wanlong Pharmaceutical Co., Ltd, Shaanxi Jinyu Pharmaceutical Co., Ltd and Nanjing Sanhome Pharmaceutical Co., Ltd occupy the market, among which Sichuan Kelun Pharmaceutical Co., Ltd had the largest market share of over 30% for sales value in 2014.

The market size of ornidazole in China grew during the period of 2005-2011 and then dropped during the period of 2011-2013 before rising again in 2014. And injection contributing to over 90% of the sales sells best among all dosage forms. As China is a country with a high incidence of infectious disease, ornidazole enjoys good market prospects here.
