Abstracts

Voriconazole is used to treat progressive, potentially life-threatening fungal infections. Its product was developed by Pfizer. It was approved in China in 2004. By 2020, there are 11 manufacturers of Voriconazole in the Chinese market, of which Pfizer has the largest market share.

According to CRI analysis, the sales of Voriconazole have grown steadily from 2016 to 2019. In 2020, its sales fell by 20.41%, from CNY1.888 billion in 2019 to CNY1.503 billion in 2020. The main reason is that the Covid-19 epidemic has affected the hospital's overall diagnosis and treatment business, resulting in a decline in its sales. The CAGR of Voriconazole in the Chinese market from 2016 to 2020 is 2.68%.

According to CRI analysis, with the effective alleviation of the Covid-19 epidemic from 2021 to 2025, the sales of Voriconazole will have a restorative growth. In addition, there are 9 companies that have applied to enter the Chinese Voriconazole market in 2020. The price of Voriconazole will decline and the sales and sales volume have the potential for growth with the addition of new manufacturers. In addition, Voriconazole is used for various fungal infections and the number of specific indications is likely to increase, so its sales volume and sales still have the potential for increase.
