Driver: Rising demand for convenience food

Consumers are moving towards processed food which are convenient considering the busy lifestyles. The rising income of population has also influenced the growth of convenience foods. Bakery food products are comparatively long lasting and ready to eat which makes them suitable for quick snacking or breakfasts. The rise in demand for convenience food will drive the growth of this market during the forecast period.

Challenge: High competition

Many local manufacturers from Asia provide cheaper products which affect the sales of high-end manufacturers of bakery equipment. This creates pressure on these companies to cut down their profits and offer their products at comparatively low prices.

Opportunity: Rising demand for frozen bakery

The rising demand for frozen bakery is creating growth opportunities to this market. The frozen products are easy to prepare, cost efficient and useful for institutional outlets. With the growth of Quick Service Restaurant (QSR) frozen bakeries are gaining popularity. In order to boost the production, a demand is created in the market for bakery processing equipment.
