Abstracts

According to Statistics MRC, the Global Ampoules and Blister Packaging Market is accounted for $11.92 billion in 2018 and is expected to reach $27.25 billion by 2027 growing at a CAGR of 9.6% during the forecast period. Increasing demand for product safety & protection, rising geriatric population and prevalence of diseases are some of the factors fuelling the market growth. However, stringent government regulations in various end-user industries and high volatile raw material prices are restraining factors for the market.

An ampoule is a little fixed glass or plastic sealed bottle, which is utilized to contain and preserve a sample, usually a solid or fluid. The rugged material used for blister packs makes them ideal for a wide range of applications, such as pharmaceuticals, electronic hardware, or toy products. Ampoules packaging is generally used to protect liquid or solution from air and contaminants. Blister packs eliminate the need for additional cartons, thereby reducing the cost of packaging.

Based on End User, Pharmaceuticals and healthcare segment is likely to have a huge demand because ampoules and blisters are highly valued for protective properties, flexibility, cost viability, and prerequisites of the pharmaceutical & healthcare packaging industry. By Geography, North America is going to have a lucrative growth during the forecast period due to increasing allergies and health acquired infections in emerging countries and this has increased number of drugs and vaccines in the region.

Some of the key players profiled in the Ampoules and Blister Packaging market include WestRock Company, Sonoco Products Company, Schott AG, Perlen Packaging AG, Nipro Corporation, Mitsubishi Chemical, Klockner Pentaplast Group, James Alexander & Co.
