Abstracts

According to Statistics MRC, the Global Automotive Fascia Market is accounted for $13.73 billion in 2020 and is expected to reach $25.55 billion by 2028 growing at a CAGR of 8.0% during the forecast period. Rising demand for lightweight vehicles and increasing sales of vehicles are driving the market growth. However, the higher maintenance and replacement cost of automotive fascia are hampering the growth of the market.

An automotive fascia is a plastic panel that is mounted at the front and rear of a vehicle. It comprises space for grilles, headlamps, bumpers, and vehicle emblem. To reduce the weight of the vehicle, the fascia is made of lightweight material most preferably plastic. It is estimated that a 10% reduction in vehicle weight will result in a nearly 7% reduction in fuel consumption.

Based on the position type, the front fascia segment is going to have lucrative growth during the forecast period owing to its uses in passenger and commercial vehicles, the increasing sales of passenger cars and the rising sales of vehicles in developing and developed key regions. By geography, Europe is going to have high growth during the forecast period owing to the presence of dominant key players present in this region, rising sales of commercial vehicles in developed countries for adventurous activities and transportation.

Some of the key players profiled in the Automotive Fascia Market include SANKO GOSEI, Plastic Omnium, MRC Manufacturing, Gestamp, FLEX-N-GATE CORPORATION, Eakas Corporation, Dongfeng Electronic Technology Co., Ltd. (DETC) and Magna International Inc.
