Abstracts

According to Statistics MRC, the Global Collagen Casing Market is accounted for $1,590.74 million in 2020 and is expected to reach $2,858.23 million by 2028 growing at a CAGR of 7.6% during the forecast period. The significant shift in the consumer's preference towards healthy diet pattern, especially among millennial and the growing popularity of synthetic collagen casing at the global level is driving the market growth. However, rising trend of veganism is hampering the growth of the market.

Collagen casings (man-made edible) are commonly made from collagen derivatives from animal hides. The collagen casings are the covering for collagen meat sausage in the foodstuff industry. Collagen is a common, certainly occurring, long, and fibrous protein having superior properties. The manufacturing process of eatable collagen casing products contains mainly animal dermis and cattle skin.

Based on the end-user, the food processing segment is going to have lucrative growth during the forecast period. Growing demand for sausages has directed to huge-scale production of sausages in the food processing industries. The labor-intensive processes have been substitute by automated machines for faster and large-scale sausage productions. The sausage production industries are categorized by inline grinding, product integrity, automated mold loading, automatic hanging devices, particle definition, sausage manufacturing, and batching systems. Moreover, the demand for meat and meat-processed products has increased significantly in the past span due to globalization and changing food cultures. As the universal population remains to increase, meat consumption is predictable to proliferate in the upcoming years.

By geography, Europe is going to have high growth during the forecast period. The meat products are safe to stock and have an extended shelf life that why it is chosen more by buyers and trade outlets. The altering routine of the buyers in Europe has directed to raise the demand for healthy and nutritious products. Therefore, the progress in the food industry is predicted to drive the collagen casings market across the region.
