Abstracts

According to Statistics MRC, the Global Flooring market is accounted for $314.26 billion in 2017 and is expected to reach $558.12 billion by 2026 growing at a CAGR of 6.5%. Mounting demand for insulation, rapid industrialization, surging demand in the construction industry and varying customer lifestyles are the major drivers. Customer knowledge and their readiness to use the product are likely to fuel the market growth. However, high cost of raw materials and lack of awareness are some of the factors hampering the market growth. Increase in demand from emerging economies and growing demand in retail sector provides ample opportunities for market growth.

Flooring can be defined as the work of installing such a floor covering. It is generally described as any finish material applied over a floor that provides a walking surface with aesthetics. Flooring and floor covering are used interchangeably. Floor covering is mostly used for loose-laid materials.

Based on end user, residential segment is projected to grow due to the increasing demand from the construction industry, increased home improvement and renovation projects; the market for flooring products in residential applications is expected to witness high growth during the forecast period.

By geography, Asia Pacific region is anticipated to grow at the highest CAGR during the forecast period. The growth is attributed to the increased affordability, rising urbanized population, supportive government policies & plans and increase in industrialization in recent years are the favourable factors for the market growth in this region.

Some of the key players in the Flooring market include Anderson, Armstrong World Industries, Inc., Flowcrete, Mohawk Industries, Inc., Congoleum Corporation, Daltile, Emser Tile, Florim Usa, Forbo, Gerflor, Interface Incorporation, Shaw Industries, The Dixie Group, Toli Corporation, Beaulieu International, Milliken & Company, Parado, Balta Industries, LG Hausys and Swiss Krono.
