Abstracts

Ever from 2012, due to the consistent downturn of international market demand and cost rise of raw materials in the domestic market, the Chinese textile industry shows a slowdown on the growth in production, investment, exportation and domestic sales etc., comparing with the same period of last year. In this report, the analysis is based on the status quo of the entire industry, the production, exportation and importation of the main textile products in 2012. The development of the industry is also projected in this report.
