Abstracts

In 2009 the total installed capacity of medical imaging equipment in China exceeded 25k units, including some 6.8k sets of XCT/CT machines—the medical imaging equipment with the largest installed capacity. Despite the impact of global financial crisis, the export of CT machines in China was still on the rise. The total export value in 2009 amounted to USD 232 million. In the next few years, hospitals of and below county level will have an increasing demand for CT equipment under the impact of the national medical reform and update of medical infrastructure, keeping expanding the market scale of CT machines in China and triggering fiercer competition among domestic CT machine manufacturers.
